Proposal for Final

Web Production I-2025FALL-AM

My website will be about watches and how they work. It will have three pages with clear navigation so users can easily move around the site. The pages will focus on the history of watches. My design will be simple and consistent. I will choose at least three hex colors, such as dark blue, gold, and gray, because they match the look of many classic watches. I will try and find some google fonts that match the aesthetic of watches and make time hands. To organize the layout, I will use flexbox and CSS grid so the pages look neat and balanced. For my CSS animation, I will try and attempt to make a small clock that actually moves. For my JavaScript interaction, I think I will have a button that shows a random fun fact about watches that has an interesting type of display. I will speak a bit about the history of the watches that I show with a little section with text.
